Superior CONSTRUCTION

Unwavering Strength

Projection windows need the proper structural integrity to support the heavy windows they house. Our projection windows are anchored from the top, which not only makes them incredibly strong, but also means you won't see any unsightly external bracing systems seen on other projection windows. Similar in engineering to a suspension bridge, the adjustable steel rod and cable hanging support system connects to the window header or overhang rafters with a straight line clamp.

Hidden Suspension System

Each aviation grade cable provides 1,200 pounds of working load limit from above, allowing our windows to float gracefully on the air.

Homeowners Ask...

Since this window will project out from my roof line, I'm worried about water leakage.

Do these windows have features to prevent that?

Yes, we use a solid wood mullion made of Timberstrand laminated lumber. A mullion is the vertical framing piece that holds the windows in place. Warping and twisting of new growth pine or vinyl is a major cause of leaking. Timberstrand is 25% stronger than standard wood.

Is a projection window going to be comfortable in the winter time?

Yes, Renewal by Andersen® offers insulated bottoms in either R-9 (standard) or R-21 insulating value, helping to provide superior energy efficiency and reduced energy costs, keeping you warm in the winter sunshine these windows will bring to your home.
